October 12th, 1770.

LONDON, JULY 23.

EVERY fact, of which we have any account, ſeems to conſpire in ſhewing the impending deſtruction of the Turkiſh empire. On the Aſiatic ſide, the Ruſſians are advancing armies, which the Porte has no equivalent force to reſiſt. The havock and expulſion of the Greeks in the Morea, and iſlands of the Archipelago, ſeems to look like acts of triumph and conqueſt; but they are in reality a diſmembering of the empire of its limits: For by the labour of theſe Greeks, and the product of their country, Conſtantinople and the military bodies are fed; and that, after this total depopulation, not only preſent famine but future ruinous ſcarcity muſt enſue, as the Turkiſh policy has no reſources for repairing their loſs.

It is aſſerted that negociations of a private nature are now on the carpet between his Pruſſian Majeſty and the Britiſh court.

JULY 26. By a gentleman lately arrived in town from Turin, we are informed, that his Sardinian Majeſty is very attentive to the affairs that now agitate the people of England, and not only confers in a very affable manner with every Engliſhman of diſtinction that viſits his dominions, but has moſt of the Britiſh news-papers tranſmitted to him.

The laſt letters from Liſbon mention, that his moſt Faithful Majeſty had reſolved to aboliſh even the very ſhadow of the inquiſition in the dominion of Portugal, both in Europe, Aſia, Africa, and America.

The peace of the North ſeems now ſettled on a permanent footing, by the late treaty between Sweden and Ruſſia; but that act was not a voluntary movement of the preſent adminiſtration in Sweden; they were compelled to it by the declaration of the Ruſſian miniſter, that, if proper engagements were not inſtantly entered into, he would quit the kingdom in twenty-four hours; and in this declaration he was accompanied by the miniſters of Great-Britain, Pruſſia, and Denmark.

JULY 30. Sir William Young will very ſoon ſet out for his government of Dominica, he having kiſſed hands on Wedneſday [illegible] appointment.

[illegible] Hillſborough had a long conference laſt Friday with his Majeſty, relative to American affairs.

JULY 31. The dreadful fire at Portſmouth, it is ſaid, was the effect of lightening, and now according to a very old proverb, electrical conductors are ordered over every building.

Many people conclude from the accounts that have been publiſhed of the fire at Portſmouth, that the French have been concerned in that villainous affair, with a view to burn down the whole dock in return for the ſcheme, ſaid to be undertaken ſome time ſince by the Engliſh, to ſet fire to Breſt, for which Capt. Gordon was actually put to death. It is, indeed, very unaccountable that our government never publicly diſclaimed their intention, as it ought to have done, when the charge was brought home to a Britiſh ſubject, who could not be ſuppoſed to engage in ſuch an undertaking without being abetted by his ſuperiors in powers: There is, however, no good reaſon to believe that any perſon concerned in the adminiſtration of government would in reality countenance ſuch a deteſtable piece of villainy in time of peace, whatever might be in time of war; but there may be French deſperadoes, who, from the ſilence of government, may have taken it for granted, and therefore have thought a retaliation a meritorious act in favour of their country. The little care that is taken to prevent foreigners from viſiting our dock-yards, affords great opportunity to execute any miſchief.

AUGUST 1. A bill is talked of to be brought in next ſeſſion, that all future parliaments may be triennial; and we hear that a ſtrong puſh will be made to bring it to paſs.

Letters from Berlin import, that ſeveral Pruſſian ſhip-carpenters, &c. were preparing to embark from Embden for Dantzick, where his Majeſty intends to eſtabliſh a dock-yard, to which the magiſtrates of that city had been forced to give aſſent.

It is ſaid the whole loſs ſuſtained by the late fire in Portſmouth dock, will fall upon the inſurance offices in London.

On July the 28th died Robert Dinwiddie, Eſq; aged upwards of eighty, at Cliſton, near Briſtol, formerly governor of Virginia.

A meeting is to be held of the freeholders of the county of York, on the 26th, at the aſſembly room in that city, to conſider the reſult of their late petition to the throne.

It is now ſaid the loſs ſuſtained by the late fire in Portſmouth dock, has been much exaggerated, and that it will not exceed 130,000l.

Letters from Peterſburgh mention, that the court had juſt received advice, that ſeveral Greek iſlands in the Archipelago, have revolted in favour of her Imperial Majeſty.

It was this morning reported, that advice is received from Trieſte, of Prince Heraclius of Georgia, having fallen into the hands of the Turks, and ſent priſoner in chains to Conſtantinople.

The lords of the admiralty have appointed George Mackenzie, Eſq; captain of the Arrogant, a guard-ſhip at Portſmouth, to be commander in chief of his Majeſty's ſhips and veſſels at Jamaica, in the room of Commodore Forreſt, deceaſed.

We hear from Portſmouth, that notwithſtanding many reports to the contrary, it had not yet appeared there were any grounds for the opinion induſtriouſly circulated, that the dock-yards had been wilfully ſet on fire by the ſecret emiſſaries of France.

AUGUST 3. It is ſaid that an expreſs is arrived with an account of a general engagement between the Turkiſh and Ruſſian armies, which laſted fourteen hours. For the firſt twelve hours the victory was doubtful; but at laſt the Turks gave way, after, as reported, having loſt 100,000 men.

By the moſt authentic accounts from the north of Germany we are told, that the new port, which the King of Pruſſia intends to build in the neighbourhood of Dantzick, will do no hurt to that city, only care muſt be taken that the Pruſſian monarch makes no encroachments, which the courts of Vienna and Peterſburgh ſeem determined to prevent.

AUGUST 7. The laſt letters from Hamburgh mention, that the court of Vienna has for ſome time been meditating a grand ſtroke of politicks, which will not fail to affect the tranquility of all Europe.

The London Gazette contains an advertiſement from the lords commiſſioners of the admiralty, offering a reward of 1000l. ſterling clear of all deductions, to any perſon or perſons who ſhall, within three months from the date hereof, diſcover the perſons guilty of ſetting fire to the dock-yard at Portſmouth, upon conviction of any one or more of the offenders, there being reaſon to ſuſpect, that the ſame was wilfully and maliciouſly ſet on fire. And his Majeſty, as a farther encouragement, is pleaſed to promiſe his moſt gracious pardon to any of the ſaid offenders, except the perſon who actually ſet the premiſes on fire.

Extract of a letter from Palma, in the iſland of Majorca, dated July 8.

"By a French veſſel this moment arrived from Algiers we are informed that four Daniſh veſſels of the line arrived there the firſt of this month, and continued in the road all that day, waiting for two frigates, two bomb-ketches, and four tranſports, which joined them the day following. On the 2d they entered the bay, where they caſt anchor, and hoiſted the white flag. Upon this the Dey ſent the French Conſul, with the captain of the port to know the intention of that ſquadron; and the anſwer they received from the commandant was, "That the King of Denmark his maſter, demanded peace with the Algerines on the conditions contained in a packet which he delivered to them; the firſt article of which was, to reſtore all the Daniſh ſlaves, with the three Daniſh prizes lately taken, and to pay all the expences of this armament." This packet having been delivered to the Dey, he ordered all the artillery to be immediately tranſported to the Lantern, and in the night between the 4th and 5th the Algerines began to throw bombs at the Daniſh ſhips, but they all burſt in the air without doing any damage to the ſhips, and the bad quality of the powder with which the artillery was ſerved, prevented its having any effect. The Daniſh ſhips in return, began to play their artillery, but without bullets. On the 5th, however, the Daniſh-bomb ketches drew up on the ſide of Ponent, and the four ſhips formed a line to ſupport them. The Algerines ſent ſome gallies and galliots, with a view to ſurprize and deſtroy the bomb-ketches; but the ſituation of the ſhips prevented the project's taking effect. In the night between the 6th and 7th the bomb-ketches began to play; at which time the French ſhip, which brings this news, put to ſea, and next day, at the diſtance of ten leagues, heard the continual report of artillery."

Extract of a letter from a merchant in Dantzick, to his friend in

"The King of Pruſſia has lately ſent about 900 men into the territories of this city, demanding about 90,000l. ſterling, as a fine for diſreſpect ſhewn him by our magiſtrates; he demands, beſides that, all thoſe born in Pruſſia or of Pruſſian extraction, now reſiding in that place may be delivered him; ſeveral of our magiſtrates and principal merchants and burgeſſes are originally from Pruſſia, ſo that this laſt demand frightens the town much more than the former. Matters are not yet ſettled."

Extract of a letter from Portſmouth, dated Auguſt 5.

"The following is an exact catalogue of what we have loſt and ſaved: Burnt about 150 or 160 cables of different ſizes; all the boatſwains and carpenters ſea ſtores; all the ſtanding rigging for ſhips of fit condition; about three hundred tons of hemp; about three hundred barrels of tar, pitch, and turpentine; laying and ſpinning-houſes, long ſtore-houſe, block-loft, new hemp-houſe, carpenter's houſe and ſhop, with the new maſt-houſes, and all the capital maſts therein contained. Saved, the rigging-houſe, and old hemp-houſe, tar-houſe, and new ſtore-houſe, with the ſtores therein, and half the ſails; the lower maſt-houſe, with its contents."

TRIESTE, July 7. All our letters from the Levant, as well as the reports of maſters of the veſſels arrived from the Morea, agree that the Ruſſians have abandoned that whole peninſula. The following is the ſubſtance of the advices received a General count Orlow, being adviſed that the army of the Seraſquier, who commanded in the Morea, was every day increaſing, and finding he could not have any reliance either on the Mainotes or the Greeks of that province, and having farther received advice, that the Turkiſh fleet had ſailed for Tenedos, he reſolved to abandon the Morea, and embark the troops on board the fleet, in order to meet that of the Turks. The Ruſſians, before they abandoned Navarino, laid a train in order to blow up the Turks on their entry into that fortreſs, but by ſome miſtake it had a contrary effect, blew up before the time intended, and deſtroyed great numbers of Mainotes and Greek inhabitants. After this event, the Seraſquier advanced towards Maina, to puniſh the inhabitants for their revolt. The Dulcignotes have teſtified their zeal for the Grand Signior, having landed a conſiderable force at Miſolongighi, cut the inhabitants to pieces, and reduced their chief town to aſhes; they have alſo ſet fire to the veſſels in the harbour, which were all deſtroyed.

UTRECHT, July 29. The letters juſt arrived from Italy confirm that the Ruſſians have abandoned the Morea.

BOSTON, SEPTEMBER 26.

AT a General Council held at the Council-Chamber in Boston, on Monday the 17th Instant, his Honour the Lieutenant-Governor was pleased to nominate

William Browne, Esq; to be one of the Justices of the Court of Common Pleas for the County of Essex.

William Pepperrell, Esq; Abraham Fuller, Esq; and Charles Pelham, Esq; Justices of the Peace for the County of Middlesex.

To which Nominations his Majesty's Council did advise and consent.

We are informed from good authority, that Commodore Hood, at Halifax, has expressed great displeasure at the late attempt to impress a man from a coasting vessel coming into this harbour: From the same authority we can assure the public, that the coasting trade shall not be molested, but encouraged and protected to the utmost, whilst the Commodore has the command of his Majesty's squadron in these seas.

SEPTEMBER 24. Saturday last being the anniversary of his Majesty's coronation, the same was observed here as usual, by the discharge of cannon at his Majesty's Castle-William, the batteries, and train of artillery in this town, and his Majesty's ships in the harbour.

Tuesday arrived here the ship Britannia, Capt. Daverson, from London: He had almost loaded his vessel in London, when Capt. Scott arrived there with returned goods from this place, but immediately took out all such articles he had on board, which were not allowed of by the non-importation agreement here, except a few which were at the bottom, his owners at the same time advertised in the following manner, viz.

"WHEREAS there may probably be on board the Britannia, William Daverson, master, bound for Boston, in New-England, sundry articles prohibited by the committee of merchants at that port to be imported. It is therefore thought necessary to give this public information, that any gentleman who may have shipped such goods on board the above-named vessel may have them taken out, immediately applying to Champion & Dickason, No. 217, Bishopsgate-street Within."

On Wednesday last a convention of the Episcopal Clergy was holden in this town, when a sermon was preached at the King's Chapel on the occasion, by the Rev. Mr. Troutbeck.

By a vessel in twenty days from the Mole we learn, that since the terrible shocks of an earthquake, which they had at Port-au-Prince, and other places on Hispaniola, in June last, they have lately had several others, in which the houses since re-built were again thrown down, and some lives lost, and that the earth had opened in several places, from which issued a very disagreeable sulphureous smell.

OCTOBER 1. Yesterday morning at 6 o'clock died very suddenly at Newbury, of an asthmatic fit, almost universally regretted, that man of God, the Reverend Mr. GEORGE WHITEFIELD, in the 56th year of his age:---He had been on a visit to Portsmouth, at which place, and at Kittery and York, he preached every day last week; and was to have preached yesterday morning at Newbury, on his return hither, had not this sorrowful event taken place.

Mr. WHITEFIELD's body is to be brought to this town, in order to be interred.

The Honourable House of Representatives on Thursday last appointed a committee of nine members, of which the speaker was chairman, to take under consideration his Honour's speech delivered that morning, who the next day reported, that it was for the interest of the province still to adhere to their former resolution not to proceed to the public business. It was then moved and ordered that the consideration of the report be postponed till Wednesday next, and that in the mean time expresses be sent to call in the absent members.---On Saturday the house voted to observe Wednesday next as a day of prayer, to seek the direction and favour of ALMIGHTY GOD, and sent the vote to the Council-Board, where it was unanimously concurred:---And we hear the Rev. Mr. Appleton, of Cambridge, and Mr. Cook, of [illegible]

By Captain Cook, who arrived here last Thursday evening in four days from Halifax, we learn, that it was reported there, that all the troops now in that place, consisting of two regiments and part of a third had orders to be in readiness to embark for Boston. And that Commodore Hood, in the Romney man of war was shortly to sail from thence to this place.

On Friday last his Majesty's armed schooner St. John arrived here from Halifax. In said schooner came fourteen men belonging to the royal train of artillery.

NEWPORT, (in Rhode-Island) OCTOBER 1.

The 23d instant the snow Polly, Captain William Scott, from Virginia, bound for Boston, was cast away at Elizabeth-islands; vessel and cargo intirely lost, except a few barrels of flour. The crew, consisting of eleven whites and two blacks were saved, seven of whom was brought in here last Tuesday, by Captain David Ross, from Barbados. The cargo of said snow consisted of 4000 bushels of wheat, some flour, and flax-seed.

NEW-YORK, SEPTEMBER 24.

Lately died in Orange county, in this province, John M'Clean, in the 109th year of his age: He was a drummer in King Williams army in Ireland, and enjoyed his health remarkably well till a few days before his death.

Major Butler, Captains Parson and Allicock, Lieutenants Gardner and Hair, are come from London passengers in the ship Dutchess of Gordon.

NEW-JERSEY, (Somerset-County) SEPTEMBER 17.

Copy of a letter sent from a number of several Committees met here, to the Freeholders and Inhabitants of the colony of Connecticut.

"FRIENDS and BRETHREN,

"Can there be any thing more surprising than the behaviour of the New-York merchants, after they have broke through their most solemn engagements, and done every thing in their power to entail slavery on us and our posterity: Yet, not content, they are daily abusing those who are honest enough to resolve against having connections with the enemies of their country. Let them go on, and let us go on also with our manufacturing and œconomy, and see whether they can do better without us, than we without them. We want nothing of them, as needles are manufactured in Pennsylvania, every other material we can readily make. And shall we be humbugged out of our liberty, and enslaved only by a set of traders? No sure; for depend upon it, from the opulent merchant to the pedlar, are all interested against us, except a few country patriots in trade. Therefore let us beware of dealing with them: Let us struggle through the winter, by being charitable, and cloath the naked with our superfluity, if any there be in want; and in another year we can provide plentiful for the winter season. My friends, beware of the accursed thing; touch it not, as it will bring down upon us sure destruction. Let the name of a merchant, therefore, especially at New-York, be dreadful in the ears of our children, and learn them that they may teach their children to the last generation, that the New-York merchants was the sole and only cause of slavery and distress: Therefore let their names sink wherever it is mentioned: Stand firm to your resolves, as we are determined to do, though the Yorkers say, "Have you not heard, that Connecticut and Jerseymen do resolve."

PHILADELPHIA, SEPTEMBER 24.

At a meeting of the subscribers to the non-importation agreement, entered into the 6th of February and 10th of March, 1769, at Josiah Davenport's tavern, September the 20th, THOMAS WILLING, Esq; being unanimously chosen Chairman, it was determined by a vote, that the following questions be put, viz.

I. Are you of opinion, that the non-importation agreement, as it now subsists should be altered? Which was determined by a great majority, in the affirmative. II. Are you of opinion that the alteration proposed, should be to open the importation of goods from Great-Britain, and other parts of Europe, except TEAS, and such other articles as are, or may be, subject to duties, for the purpose of raising a revenue in America? Which was determined in the negative. III. Whether it will not be for the reputation of this city, to consult the other colonies, before any breach is made in the present agreement? Which was determined in the negative. IV. Whether the agreement is deemed to be broke or altered? Agreed that it is altered only. V. Whether any goods shall be admitted to be landed and sold here, which shall sail in any vessel from Great-Britain, before the 15th of January next, until the spring vessels generally arrive, that all may be on a footing? Resolved in the negative.

Mr. Thomson acquainted the subscribers met, that Messrs. William Fisher, John Gibson, John-Maxwell Nesbitt, George Roberts, Thomas Mifflin, Daniel Benezet, John Cox, jun. Samuel Howell, Alexander Huston, James Mease, and himself, considering the non-importation agreement to be broken by the resolves now passed, no longer deem themselves of the committee. It was therefore determined that the subscribers to the non-importation agreement be desired by public notice, to meet on Saturday morning next, at eleven o'clock, at Josiah Davenport's, to choose eleven persons, to supply the places of those gentlemen of the committee, who have now resigned.

The thanks of the subscribers were then given to the chairman, for his impartial conduct in proposing the different questions at their meeting; also to the gentlemen of the committee, for their care and attention, in endeavouring to have the non-importation agreement hitherto complyed with.

SEPTEMBER 27. "WHEREAS the parliament of Great-Britain has of late claimed a power to make laws to bind the colonies in all cases whatsoever, and in consequence of that claim, and to establish a precedent, has passed an act, imposing duties on tea, &c. imported into America, for the express purpose of raising a revenue in America, and have ordered the money arising from those duties to be applied to "defray the charge of the administration of justice, and the support of civil government, in such provinces where it shall be found necessary, and towards the further defraying, protecting, and securing his Majesty's dominions in America." And whereas this claim and precedent are not only destructive of property (as no man can be said to have a property in that, which another may, as of right give and grant without his consent) but have a manifest tendency to reduce the Americans to the most abject slavery: For what slavery can be more compleat, more miserable, more disgraceful, than that of a people, where justice is administered, government carried on, and a standing army maintained, at the expence of the people, and yet without the least dependance upon them? And whereas the carrying this plan into execution renders our assemblies useless, which are our best bulwark against arbitrary power; and in prosecution of the plan of subjugating the colonies, a board of commissioners is established in America, with unbounded and uncontroulable powers, for the better collecting the duties that are or may be imposed upon us without our consent; the jurisdiction of admiralty courts (which are unfriendly to liberty) is extended and enlarged in America; a power arrogated of superceeding and dispensing with acts of assembly, which have received the royal confirmation, in order to encrease the fees of crown-officers; and persons suspected of treasons and misprisons of treason, are threatened to be dragged from hence, and tried in England; contrary to law, and the principles of the English constitution; and a standing army is kept up in time of profound peace, independent of any authority in the colonies. We therefore, the Grand Jury for the city and county of Philadelphia, think it our duty to declare that we consider ourselves as freemen, and entitled to all the rights and privileges of free-born British subjects. "That it is inseparably essential to the freedom of a people, and the undoubted right of Englishmen, that no tax be imposed upon them but with their own consent, given personally, or by their representatives. That courts of justice are established for the trial of all crimes, committed within this province; and that no person is legally, and constitutionally amenable before any court, out of this province, for crimes committed within it." And therefore, lest the alteration, which a majority of the importers of British merchandize in this city, who met at Davenport's tavern, on Thursday the 20th instant, have made in the non-importation agreement, may be construed into an acquiescence of the people in the parliament's claim of right to tax the colonies, in order to vindicate our just and inherent rights, we declare and resolve: I. That we will as far as in us lies promote a union with the other colonies, and concur with them in any measures, that may be deemed prudent and practicable, consistent with the duty we owe to our King, in endeavouring to procure a full redress of our grievances, and a full enjoyment of English constitutional liberty. II. That we will unite with our fellow subjects in discountenancing the use of British manufactures, and the consumption of British merchandize, until the parliament's claim of right to tax the colonies is given up, the act imposing duties on tea, &c. is repealed, the jurisdiction and power of the admiralty courts is restricted, the board of commissioners dissolved, and the standing army are removed, or put under the direction of the civil authority, so as not to be dangerous to the liberty of the people. III. That we will abstain from the use of all such articles of luxury, imported from Great-Britain, as shall hereafter be agreed to by our fellow subjects in this province.

By order of the Grand Jury,

September 24th, 1770. JOHN GIBSON, Foreman."

"Many respectable freeholders and inhabitants of this city and county, justly alarmed at the resolutions formed by a number of the dry goods importers, on Thursday last, at Davenport's tavern, which reflect dishonour on this city and province, earnestly request the freemen of the city and county, to meet in the state-house, this afternoon at 3 o'clock, to consider and determine what is proper to be done to vindicate the honour of this city, and to avert the danger that threatens their country."

CHARLES-TOWN, OCTOBER 23.

TUESDAY last his Majesty's Sloop Bonetta, James Wallace, Esq; Commander, arrived here from New-York.

Wednesday last the Sloop Betsey, John Hull, Master, arrived here from Rhode-Island, in whom came the Body of the late Benjamin Smith, Esq; and on Friday Evening it was interred in the Family Vault, in St. Philip's Church-Yard.

Last Saturday Afternoon, there was a Meeting of the Inhabitants at LIBERTY-TREE, when it was RESOLVED, That the Trade between this Province and the Colony of Rhode-Island, should be opened, pursuant to a Letter received per Captain Hull, from the General Committee of Boston, which certifies, "That they were satisfied with the Conduct of the Inhabitants of Providence and Newport, in Rhode-Island, in Respect to their having again entered into Resolutions to abide by the Non-Importation Agreement, &c." and recommending them to a free and uninterrupted Trade as formerly.----Thus is the Trade opened with our Sister Colony, and that the Inhabitants thereof, may in future, strictly adhere to their Resolutions, and firmly unite with those of the other Colonies, who are STRUGGLING for the SALVATION of AMERICAN LIBERTY, is our most ardent Wish.
